Bereavement Leave:

Union Modifies F1 and F2 as follows:

The Company will pay the team member's regular base pay for each day of approved bereavement leave. Time off will be paid, provided:

- a). The team member notifies their supervisor at their earliest opportunity by including available details related to the request and the time away needed.
- b). In most instances, bereavement time will be taken to coincide with funeral or memorial services or other formal acknowledgement of an individual's passing. While bereavement time does not have to be taken consecutively, the time away from work should be connected with activities related to the loss of the loved one.
 - i. The first day of absence does not occur prior to the day of such death.
 - ii. The last day of absence is not later than six months from the day of such death. In the event of a delayed funeral or other circumstance such as settling an estate, the HR Manager may approve dates beyond six months from the date of death.
 - iii. The day of absence is a day of the team member's regularly scheduled workweek, not including overtime days, on which the team member would have otherwise worked had it not been for the death.

Upon request, team members must furnish proof to the Company of the death, their relationship to the deceased and the date of the funeral/formal service.

Team members who are on a leave of absence or lay-off will not qualify for paid bereavement leave. Bereavement pay will not be paid in addition to any other kind of pay such as holiday pay, vacation pay, short-term disability, etc.

Time paid for bereavement leave will be counted as hours worked for overtime/premium pay purposes.
